To Whom It May Concern:

Dear Elizabeth,

I am writing to provide the highest possible recommendation for Elizabeth Emerson, who served as an IT Specialist and Website Architect on the DAREU Radio website project, completed through the Riipen program in collaboration with Capella University.

Let me be direct: Elizabeth was the backbone of this project. While every team member played a role in bringing the DAREU Radio website to life, it was Elizabeth who carried the technical weight and delivered a product that exceeded expectations. She designed and built a fully functional, professional-grade website for an active digital media brand, a live radio station with a growing audience, a mobile app presence, and real commercial ambitions. That is not a classroom exercise. That is real-world deliverable work, and Elizabeth handled it with the skill and composure of a seasoned professional.

What set Elizabeth apart beyond her technical ability was her communication. In a remote, multi-stakeholder environment, she kept lines of communication clear, flagged issues proactively, and ensured that her work aligned with the vision I had for the station. A technically brilliant person who cannot communicate is difficult to work with. Elizabeth was both brilliant and a pleasure to collaborate with, and that combination is genuinely rare.

The site she built features a built-in streaming player, show programming architecture, app download integration, social connectivity, and a content-ready framework that positions DAREU Radio for the next phase of its growth. Elizabeth built that. And she built it well.

I recommend Elizabeth Emerson without hesitation and with full confidence. Any organization that brings her onto their team is getting someone who can be trusted with complex, high-visibility technical work — and who will deliver.

Sincerely,

Brenna Martin
